The Daily Oregonian.

FRIDAY MORNING NOV 2 1860

A Reminiscence of the Late Session

The following is a dispatch from Washington dated October 7th published in the New York Herald

A telegram has been received here dated Salem Oregon October 6 saying To day the Oregon Legislature virtually expunged the former ratification of the constitutional amendment by a vote of 34 yeas against 2 nays

To which we are constrained to answer O Mr O Humason, not at all No, sweet friends of the Confederate faith you who caused an expense to the State of one thousand dollars by your efforts to get this expunging resolution through you who, when you thought success had been achieved, assessed the "forehanded" members of your party in the Legislature for a sum sufficient to pay for the transmission of the above dispatch to Washington to gladden the heart of your "Moses"—no your long struggle, your operose efforts availed not You are decidedly out on that speculation The expunction was not virtual, as set forth in the dispatch which you "threw in" to send It lacked much of the "actual" And now will you, individually or collectively, or some one authorized to speak for you in your individual or collective capacity, answer this? When you found the rescission was not "virtual" did you or that portion of you who had wherewithal to do it, contribute each his several share, to send another dispatch correcting the former one and disabusing the mind of your noble tribune of the error which your prescription had led him into? If so, well, if not, you are deserving of the severest censure We do not believe you did send a second dispatch For shame, then, you who have not undeceived your leader—you who have imposed upon and abused his too confiding nature! To this moment he thinks that his policy has triumphed in Oregon And when he learns the truth, when he ascertains how you have misled him, when he discovers that you have resorted to this artifice to ingratiate yourselves with him, when he is informed that you have raised hopes in his breast which can never be realized,—think you, O, Mr O Humason, the leader of this strategy, that you will get the Custom House you are pining for? Probably not much. Take care, O, Mr O. Humason, that vaulting ambition do not again o'erleap itself

Politics in Olympia

There are yet at least two Federal office holders in Washington Territory who adhere to the faith as it is in "my policy" Though others succumber, these resolutely refuse to strike their colors For some reason best known to themselves they not yet betrayed their Democratic friends as they betrayed their Union brethren sometime ago But it must not be supposed that Messrs Evans and Moore, Secretary and Collector, have not principle for sale The trouble doubtless is that they cannot get their price, and therefore they are determined to continue their warfare against the traitors at the Northern end of the line The great dispenser of official bread and butter has lost every Northern State by overwhelming majorities; but the two gentlemen of Olympia think that they can give him the vote of the immense Territory of Washington and thus effectually counterwork the "traitors" elsewhere throughout the North. Fired with the enthusiasm of the idea, they attended the Copperjohnson Convension at Olympia on the 14th inst and made heavy speeches in favor of the policy of Alcek Stephens and A Johnson It signifies nothing to these doughty trencher friends of the President's that his policy has been repudiated by half a million majority. What do the Secretary and Collector care for trifling obstacles like this? They have undertaken as a labor of love to disunite the policy, and in a short time they hope to come to the President's rescue with the vote of the great Territory of Washington Hence they are moving the very clam beds of the Sound to accomplish their object. Hence they are assailing their former political associates with all the energy they can command Hence they are pouring out the whole contents of their little vials of wrath on the Union party The question is will these two powerful adherents of Johnson be able to give him the Territory of Washington, and if they do give it to him, will it redeem his policy and enable him to triumph over the Congress hanging on the verge and the traitors at the Northern end of the line? These momentous questions, and the attention of the whole country is fixed on Olympia, awaiting the answer

The Washington Territory officials are the only ones we have heard of who, having gone over to the enemy, persist in disgracing themselves politically after every reason for doing so has been removed or ceased to exist.

Out in the Cold

It is a Democratic habit to pass contemptuous censure on New England for her radicalism. Many who dislike her principles have at various times proposed to reconstruct the Union by uniting the balance of the States and thrusting New England unceremoniously out in the cold. It has been argued that with such an arrangement as this we should have peace, permanent and profound Now, we ask it if it be not full time that a part of those reproaches were transferred from New England and applied to the States of the Mississippi valley, north of the Ohio river? Look at Illinois Her splendid and unexampled majority of fifty-six thousand for the Union party indicates that that State is wedded to radical principles about as firmly as is Massachusetts herself Again, look at Ohio Her majority is sixty four thousand, being exceeded by that of but one State in the Union, Iowa gives thirty-five thousand, Michigan thirty thousand, and Wisconsin twenty five thousand majority for the same principles which New England is denounced for upholding Here in five Western States is two hundred and seventy thousand radical majority Radicalism therefore is not peculiar to New England In reorganizing a Government to suit our fastidious "Conservatives," would it not be well to leave the great States of the West out in the cold too? Nay, is it not indispensable to the success of the "Conservative" plan to exclude them?

POLITICAL EQUALITY AND SOCIAL EQUALITY — We find the following from the Philadelphia Telegraph in the columns of our Copperhead contemporary It is the most sensible paragraph that we remember ever to have seen in the Herald It continues to give its readers now and then a little piece of common sense like this, it will soon dispel their prejudices and cause them to repudiate sham Democracy This one little paragraph completely overturns all the profound argument it has ever published on the negro question. Will our neighbors re publish it at least once a month and endeavor to learn something from it? By all means let him read it over and over and mark in how few words the fundamental doctrine of his party can be refuted

There never was greater fallacy than that which maintains that political equality implies social equality Political equality is simply equality before the law, and consists in the enjoyment of equal political rights Social equality, on the contrary, has no reference whatever to rights It has no common standard by which all can be measured It depends upon a thousand different things such as wealth education, culture, character and the like Political equality prevails among all our white citizens, but there is no such thing as a general social equality among them Because men vote at the same polls or even vote the same ticket, they have not, therefore a right to intrude themselves upon each other socially The two things are totally distinct, and are only confounded by those who desire, through an unfounded prejudice, to defraud certain classes of their political rights

The Herald's correspondent under date of Oct 30 says Miramon has arrived en route for Mexico having obtained the necessary permission from Maximilian

NEW ORLEANS Nov 17—Late Mexican advices say Maximilian arrested at Cordova, where he was stopped and prevented from proceeding further until he should abdicate in favor of the person named by Europe The Emperor refused to abdicate in favor of any one but himself This was not accepted and he returned to the city declining to abdicate in favor of any one else

Official documents recently received in New Orleans by a French steamer to Vera Cruz have been abstracted from the officers of the consulate of the city at Vera Cruz, and are supposed to be now in New York or Washington

A Milan correspondent says the elections in Brentino for deputies to the Tyrolese Diet, have all resulted in the return of members favorable to the re-union of Tyrol with Italy and these deputies have all declared their intention not to sit in the Tyrol Diet

Negotiations for apportionment of the Pontifical debt were still to be in progress at Paris There is reason to believe they will be shortly brought to a conclusion satisfactory to all parties

The negotiations for a treaty of commerce between France and Austria, which have been opened will shortly be continued at Vienna It is believed they will have a favorable issue

All the Saxon troops in Dresden, with the exception of 200 of each battalion have been disbanded

The London Times says the general result of the late experimental cruise of British iron clads is satisfactory The squadron succeeded in keeping the sea for a month during the autumnal equinox

NEW YORK, Nov 22—The United States Consul at Odessa writes, under date of September 15th that the wheat harvest is nearly ended and is considered the best in quality and quantity for many years The new crop finds ready market at about $1 25 to American corn per bushel

A Paris letter says The Monitor containing six columns in small type of details of disasters by the late inundation in the south of France the amount of fact that twelve million francs will be required to repair injuries done to the public works alone. Thirty two bridges of arches of road between St Juan de Maurienne and the Italian frontier and three miles of road over Mont Cenis including one of the principal bridges of Victor Emanuel's railway, were destroyed

A number of Democratic Congressmen who lately conversed with Mr Johnson state that he has no idea of handing his present policy and that if a result of the late elections have had no effect except to make him more determined in his old policy They claim, with what truth is uncertain that he insists that the people were hoodwinked and deluded and will soon begin to see their mistake and adopt his views

The Times has the following Mr Johnson has not indicated his purpose in relation to the amnesty suffrage plan mentioned in the dispatches on Tuesday last, though gentlemen who advocate the proposition represent that the President has given them encouragement to expect he will adopt the constitutional amendment substantially if not exactly in the form they advise Several newspaper correspondents have endeavored to excite a doubt of the existence of such a combination of leaders, men for the purpose of inducing the President to accept the proposition and advise the Southern people as set forth in my dispatch in order to put at rest such doubts I am entitled to say from personal knowledge that such a combination does exist and that a number of gentlemen are co-operating in it have had interviews with Mr Johnson, and they have been laboring on the matter for about a month visiting and corresponding with influential men of the North and South

A Tribune special says that the most important part of the business of the Councils of Congress, may be looked for from the special committee on reconstruction, appointed toward the close of the last session, with leave to sit and take testimony during the recess The committees have been hard at work during a period of three months

WASHINGTON, Nov 21—The report that Maximilian is not permitted to leave Mexico is not believed here General Grant believes that he will embark before the end of December

A WORD OF CAUTION — An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure' is a trite and truthful maxim In view of this truism, therefore, it is the part of wisdom to neglect the slightest symptom of a cough that might end in consumption when a few doses of NEWELL'S PULMONARY SYRUP—a never failing remedy for all affections of the lungs—will relieve you at once thereby saving an expensive doctor a bill, a vast amount of suffering, and probably a valuable life

TUSCAN-SHADED.—ELLSWORTH & CARWELL 89 First Street produce the most elegant PICTURES of the present day The camera obscura at this GALLERY is the 'glass of fashion' and truly reveals the 'mould of form' Some of the specimens we saw here lately look as though they were continually fanned by a passing zephyr Wisdom directs you how it is, but it requires a gentleman understand the art of "superb finish" Negatives taken in all kinds of weather

MAXIMILIAN has abdicated from Mexico but ROSE & FINNEY at the ST LOUIS CLOTHING STORE still continue to receive by every steamer direct from manufacturers, New and Fashionable Clothing, which they sell at strictly San Francisco prices.

The President has "recommended" a National Thanksgiving, to which, considering that we have much to be thankful for not the least reasonable object can be made Whether, upon the suspicious occasion, in view of the probable quality of the next Congress the Presidential heart will be overstocked with emotions of gratitude, we do not undertake to determine but as the Creator is to be addressed by the appointed day, and as popularly supposed to be a God of Truth we cannot but regret a slight flavor of mendacity in the President's proclamation It is true that domestic tranquility has improved in new instances during the last year It is true that the "civil war has by nowhere re-opened" There are several large localities of the country in which "sentiments of conciliation have not largely prevailed and in which there are no "affections of loyalty and patriotism" to speak of That this is unfortunately so is mainly owing to the political eccentricities (to state it mildly) of the President and we do not like to see him boldly taking it for granted that all is as serene as it might have been if he had not contracted a bad habit of vetoing, or as if his friends were not lately accustomed to threaten us with a coup d'etat in Washington, Congress remaining (as it seems likely to remain) sturdily impracticable

There is a little patch of Scripture at the tail end of the Proclamation as follows "Those that are meek shall He guide in judgment, and such as are gentle shall He learn His way" This is a valuable promise, upon which, we hope, the President will ruminate He is not always so meek as he should be and once or twice, upon his late journey, we think he might have drawn it just a little milder — N Y Tribune.

What Experienced Mill Men think of the Portable Steam Saw Mills built by the Oregon Iron Works!

PORTLAND, Oct 18th, 1866.

TO THE OREGON IRON WORKS

Gentlemen—The Portable Steam Saw Mill which we purchased of you last spring for Pen d'Oreille Lake has been in operation during the past season, and has more than met our expectations in its performance With three men, we turn out from three to four thousand feet, and with five men, five thousand feet per day of ten hours; and we take pleasure in recommending these mills as the most SUBSTANTIAL, DESIRABLE AND PERFECT MILLS IN USE, and especially adapted to the wants of this country, on account of their compact form, ease of transportation and the facility with which they can be set up and put in operation. Although subjected to the most severe tests, no repairs have been required

Voyage of the First Missionary Packet to the Sandwich Islands—Forty Years Ago.

PERILOUS PASSAGE OF A SCHOONER OF FORTY TONS.

When the new Missionary ship Morning Star was launched at East Boston the other day, there stood on her deck a man who forty years ago navigated a little craft of only forty tons from Boston to Honolulu for the American Board. That person was Captain James Hunnewell, and the vessel which he sailed to the Pacific was the Missionary Packet, the first vessel sent by the Board to the Sandwich Islands. The voyage of the little vessel was a tempestuous and eventful one, occupying nine weary months, during which Capt. Hunnewell and his four companions suffered great hardships. He has by request prepared an account of his voyage, which will be read with deep interest not only by the friends of missions generally, but also by the 150,000 Sabbath School children who are stockholders in the new Morning Star. It is a narrative of thrilling character, and we give it substantially as written by Captain Hunnewell.

Capt. Hunnewell's Narrative.

Time (10 years) has mellowed down in my mind many of the exciting and very thrilling incidents, which, on reviewing as they passed, not unfrequently drew tears of gratitude from eyes unaccustomed to weep, to that all wise, kind and protecting Providence of God, that had guided me and my little barque through those dark and trying periods of trial and danger; and how often did I have occasion to exclaim,

"God moves in a mysterious way
His wonders to perform,
He plants His footsteps in the sea
And rides upon the storm."

Cheered by the words,

"Behind a frowning Providence
He hides a smiling face."

THE MISSIONARY VESSEL.

The Missionary Packet was built at North Salem in the year 1825, for the A. B. C. F. Mission, for the use of the Missionaries at the Sandwich Islands at the suggestion of the Rev. William Ellis, the excellent English missionary who had just returned from the Islands, and was built under the immediate care of the Hon. Wm. Reed; then Chairman of the Presidential Committee of the A. B. C. F. M. She was well adapted to ply among the islands, but poorly adapted to perform the passage out, particularly at the season of the year when she left Boston and was off the stormy regions of Cape Horn. The packet was 49 feet long and only 13 feet wide, measuring a few ninety-fifths short of forty tons register. She was to have been ready to sail in November, 1825, but did not get ready to sail until January, 1826. Thus delayed until cold weather she was not thoroughly and properly finished.

You will not think of criticising my writing when you are reminded that I commenced my sea-faring life not as a merchant but as a cabin boy.

DEPARTURE FROM BOSTON.

On the 18th of January, 1826, we took our departure from Boston, our docks but one foot above the water line, sailing under instructions (of 14th of January) from the venerable Jeremiah Evarts, Secretary of the A. B. C. F. Missions, committing us to "the Divine protection during our voyage." Our ship's company consisted of two Americans, two Sandwich Islanders (who always proved true and faithful to me) and myself, making five persons on board, all told.

HEAVY GALES ENCOUNTERED.

Proceeding on our voyage, after two days of fine weather we began to experience hard gales, which compelled us to lay under balance mainsail with a drag out, to keep the vessel to the wind; made of a spare gaff, a small anchor and a coil of new rope, which we lost after using it a few times. Without the drag, the vessel came to and fell off seven points, keeping our decks full of water, the vessel much exposed and in a dangerous position, our deck leaking badly, particularly around the trunk. My bed, books, clothing, all everything in the lockers were wet and damaged. The vessel leaked so bad during the heavy weather as to require a long spell at the pumps every hour. A man at the pump was like being on a half-tide rock—always wet, and sometimes all over; and a man at the helm was often left up to his hips, and my little company had, for weeks at a time, to sleep on wet bedding below, as well as being wet on decks. It was wonderful that we were so well as we were.

During heavy weather we were compelled to lay to with fore-sail for many days with making our sailing, the heavy seas rolling in on both sides, filling our decks completely full, endangering the vessel, and thus compelling us to lay to. This was very trying.

THE PACKET LEAKY AND UNSEAWORTHY.

Soon after leaving Boston we found that the vessel not only leaked in her decks and around the deck trunk, but that she leaked badly in her stern and in the midship case, causing, during all the heavy weather, a steady stream of water over the cabin floor aft, running forward. We found a large leak but stem the pumps and stopped it. On a wind, with a six knot breeze from dead quarter, the decks were full of water, the vessel pitching heavily. When 21 days out we had not seen a dry place on any part of our decks for 15 days. During heavy weather our leaks seemed to increase so as to require a spell of 400 strokes per hour at the pumps.

CALMS, WEATHER.

On the 12th of February, when 25 days out, it was calm for the first time during the passage. The deck was dry enough to caulk and I set myself to work caulking the decks, and found the (deck) trunk found it quite open and in some places put in two threads of oakum for several feet.

During the passage I found it difficult to take lunar observations owing to the great and quick motions of our little vessel, but succeeded better than I expected. Found the deductions from observations nearly correct.

CROSSING THE EQUATOR.

March 9, when 50 days out, crossed the equator in the longitude of 27° west. Owing to our vessel leaking so badly decided to stop at Rio Janeiro to caulk ship, and stop leaks and repair and alter sails by reefs. Had some rough weather in crossing the trade winds.

ARRIVAL AT RIO.

We reached Rio on the 25th of March—the sixty-ninth day out. Experienced much delay in finding caulkers, in getting permission to open hatches to get out articles that were necessary, and to get out and dry damaged articles. Capt. Sales of the ship St. Peter altered and repaired my sails and rendered me other assistance without charge. My two Americans came to me and demanded their discharge from the vessel, and threated to raise their discharge if I did not give it. I took advice and adopted such advice as induced them, though reluctantly, to remain by the vessel and proceed to sea. One of them from near-sightedness was of very little use to me. I found it impossible to get a white man of any nation to join my vessel. I succeeded, however, in inducing a black man to go with me who proved to be of little use.

DEPARTURE FROM RIO.

After spending thirteen days at Rio Janeiro, on the 12th of April I took my departure and had comfortable weather until the 23d of April, when in lat. 37° south we met with

HARD GALES AND SQUALLY WEATHER.

So that I was compelled to lie to under bare poles very much exposed. Lost nearly all our quarter boards on the starboard side. The vessel strained so much as to renew our leak and necessitate a long spell at the pumps every hour. For the better security of our deck trunk, lashed it down as strongly as possible to the scuppers, also re-lashed our boat, and in other ways prepared for Cape Horn.

AROUND CAPE HORN.

The season being so far advanced towards the Southern winter, the days being very short, and the nights so very cold, and not having any maps, charts or sailing directions for the Straits of Magellan, except the coast pilot, which was of but little use, (it was impossible to obtain any in Boston before sailing), unwilling to grope my way through the Straits in the dark at this inclement season of the year, and having on my former voyages seen some mild weather off the cape, I decided to give up my desire to explore the Straits, and try my chance for a passage westward around Cape Horn. I therefore made the best of my way southward.

A MAN OVERBOARD.

May 8th, in 49° south, we encountered strong winds and squally weather; we took in the square sail, but lost it overboard with Mr. R.; immediately cut away and manned our only boat with the two Sandwich Islanders and the black man, giving them directions to pull to windward for Mr. R., leaving only the near sighted man on board with me. It was blowing hard at the time, with a rough sea, and it was a very perilous time for us all. But after about three-quarters of an hour of intense anxiety, the boat returned with Mr. R., nearly exhausted, having been compelled to abandon the square sail and spar. We succeeded in getting Mr. R. and the boat on board, and with great difficulty secured the boat. The gale increased and the sea became very rough, every sea making a breach over us; lay to the remainder of the night under balance roof mainsail. Next day made sail for the southward.

TERRA DEL FUEGO IN WINTER.

On the 13th of May we made Staten Island and del Fuego, with all the high land covered with snow. The weather very cold and dreary, with hard hail squalls passed through the Straits of Le Maire; and from the 14th to 23d May was off the Cape, and a part of the time in sight of it and the snow-clad islands in the vicinity.

Much of the time it was blowing as hard gales as I ever saw, with frequent heavy blue squalls of snow and hail. A part of the time it blew so hard as to blow down the sea and swell, leaving the surface of the ocean a level white foam; a part of the time while off the Cape we were under bare poles; made sail when it lulled. The vessel leaked so much as to require pumping every hour. Two of my little company, D—— and the black man, were sick and unable to do duty. Temperature of air 30°; water 40°.

ATTEMPT TO DOUBLE THE CAPE RELINQUISHED.

Owing to the frequent heavy gales and hard squalls I found on the 23d of May that we were losing ground; two of my little company were unable to do duty, my sails so much strained that they could not hold out much longer, while it was impossible in such weather to get at our spare sails, almost constantly wet below as well as on deck. And after mature deliberation and consultation with my companions I deemed to be useless, and even foolhardiness, any longer to attempt to force a passage round the Cape, convinced that if we remained much longer in that latitude our friends at home would never know how far we did go.

FOR THE STRAITS OF MAGELLAN.

Therefore for the preservation of the vessel and our lives I bore away for the straits of Magellan, meeting with severe gales, and the sea making a complete breach over us, and twice nearly throwing us on our beam ends, so that the water poured down the companion-way. Lost all the remaining bulwarks. Comfort was out of the question. We made all the sail possible to get into the Straits, but could make no headway, owing to the strong gales direct ahead and a current setting eastward. We continued our efforts till the 30th of May, when we spoke the English cutter Dart, of Greenock, Capt. Duncan, on a sealing voyage, just out of the Straits and bound to the Falkland Islands (twelve hours' sail to windward) to winter.

PUT AWAY TO FALKLAND ISLANDS FOR A HARBOR.

The condition of my crew, my vessel, her sails, and the necessity of her soon breaking out her hold to get at wood, water and provisions, which we could not do at sea, made it necessary that we should enter some harbor soon. I therefore decided to bear away and accompany the Dart to the Falkland Islands, Capt. Duncan agreeing to lead my way into a good harbor, where he was well acquainted and where there was plenty of wood and water that I much needed. It blowing a fresh gale, with a heavy sea, we sound under reef foresail, "half the time under water," the sea making frequent breaches all over us, so that during the night (as on other occasions like it) every one on deck for their safety were obliged to be lashed securely.

THE LUXURY OF SMOOTH WATER.

We reached the Islands on the 1st of June, and anchored in a deep and well sheltered harbor called Roberson's Bay, in Swan Island, where we enjoyed the luxury of smooth water. The next day, by the advice of the Captains of some American sealing vessels, we removed to Fish Bay, in Beaver Island.

On Beaver Island we found plenty of good water, an article of great consequence, a good substitute for wood, and plenty of wild fowl that could be easily taken. The upland was covered with a very coarse grass, but not a tree or a bush were to be seen on any of the windward islands, and none but shell fish to be found at this season. Drift wood from the continent was to be found on the western shores of the island, and I was well supplied with breadstuff.

PROVIDENTIAL ESCAPE FROM SHIPWRECK.

Capt Duncan of the Dart was not satisfied with this harbor, and urged me very strongly to accompany him to a neighboring island, a day's sail from this, which he represented as a much better harbor than Fish Bay, and where he was very well acquainted. Though I felt under obligations to him for leading me into a safe harbor in that dreary climate, I very providentially decided not to leave the harbor with him, and told him that after being so long at sea, and some of the time doubtful whether I should ever reach a safe harbor, I would remain where I then was until the days began to lengthen, and then make another attempt to find my way through the Straits of Magellan. Unable to induce me to accompany him, Capt. Duncan in the Dart left me early in the morning (Sunday) for his favorite island and harbor, and, for Lafayette learned after a boisterous day, arrived at the entrance of harbor just at dark, where, unable to see his way in, to safe anchorage, he cast anchor during a heavy squall and swung on the reef or rocks, where his vessel was totally lost. Capt. Duncan and crew (except two men drowned) saved themselves with what they stood in. Their boats, turned over on the beach, was their only shelter on that cold and inhospitable beach. Some forty days after Capt. D. and a Mr. Smith reached our little harbor in a sailing vessel bound to Valparaiso, and I prevailed on Mr. Smith to join my little company.

ANOTHER START FOR THE STRAITS.

One of the American sealing vessels that left us early in June, touched at our harbor on the way to the Straits of Magellan, and the Captain promised to keep me company, if I would start with him. I therefore started (though earlier than I contemplated) in company with him, his being a vessel nearly three times as large as the Packet, a faster sailer, light and buoyant. He left me when but two days out to find my own way.

PASSAGE OF THE STRAITS.

We had a comfortable passage over to the Straits, which we reached in four days. We worked our way along without important incident, getting occasional sights at parties of Patagonians on the northern shore, and reached Port Famine on the 22d of July. The winds then became boisterous and the sea very rough, and we were several times compelled to put back to that harbor. On the 26th the weather moderated, and we continued the voyage, making moderate progress. From the 10th to the 19th of August, severe gales and frequent heavy squalls, with snow and hail, prevailed, and we anchored several times in Sundt Harbor. On the 19th, when in sight of Cape Pillars, the western extremity of the Straits, a strong gale set in from the east. It was

A DAY OF LIFE OR DEATH.

We ran out to the southward from among the small Islands and reefs into the open straits under double reef sails, keeping to windward as far as possible, intending to bear away and run out to westward as soon as I could see a clear passage. The sharp, quick sea from the East, meeting the great ground swell from the West, particularly when over the rock just above and the rocky reefs near the surface, caused some of the most frightful and terrific surges I ever saw, throwing the water higher than the highest ship-masts. They would destroy the largest ship in our navy that dared to be in the way. When well out I found we were surrounded on all sides, except the narrow passage out of which we came by these terrific reefs and breakers. By keeping to windward we were providentially enabled to return with a leading wind into the narrow passage that we came out of, and just in time to secure anchorage before dark, in a snug but unsafe little nook, where we were sheltered from the frequent heavy squalls, with three anchors down on three points and a hawser out on the fourth quarter.

WIND-BOUND.

Here we lay two nights. Sunday the 20th we remained in the same nook, spending an intensely anxious Sabbath, when with a fair wind we were compelled to lay by, not daring to make another attempt until the sea became smoother. I spent most of this Sabbath on a neighboring mountain, prostrate on the ground, seeking Divine protection—and direction, or watching the winds and waves. I could see the reefs and blind breakers for twenty miles seaward, but no clear passage out.

THE CRISIS.

On Monday the 21st the wind continued from the eastward but moderating, and the sea going down. We left our nook and passed out through the same narrow pass into the open Straits. Found it quite smooth. Bore away and run westward, cleared all the hidden dangers, and at meridian, with pleasant weather and a smooth sea were within one mile of the Evangelist Islands, with Cape Victory and Cape Pillars both in sight in opposite directions. At 8 P. M., calm, and 20 miles west of the Evangelist Islands.

MORE HEAVY WEATHER.

At midnight a strong gale set in from the west, accompanied by a heavy sea, which soon brought us down to bare poles. On the morning of the 22d Cape Victory was in sight to leeward, and we made all sail possible to prevent being driven back into the Straits. It was a crisis in the voyage, and never was a vessel harder pressed than our little Packet. The frequent and heavy seas that passed over us required that all persons on deck should be securely lashed to the vessel for their safety.

ARRIVAL AT VALPARAISO AND DEPARTURE FOR HONOLULU.

The winds and weather became milder as we advanced northward. On the 1st of September, 10 days from the Straits, we made the land and soon after entered the harbor of Valparaiso and anchored. The next day ascertained that I could not accomplish any desirable object by remaining longer. Filled our water casks, took on board some fowls, vegetables and fruit and discharged Mr. Smith and our black man. Being considered a public vessel they did not require us to pay port charges. We set sail for the Sandwich Islands and were favored with pleasant weather. We met with no remarkable incidents, and on the 21st of October entered the harbor of Honolulu, where I was joyfully received by my friends, foreign and native. The time occupied on the voyage was nine months and three days. I anchored during that time upward of thirty times in upward of twenty different ports and harbors, having spent six weeks in one harbor and fifty days in the Straits of Magellan, making 104 days south of the latitude of 52° south; including the three winter months. My boat ran in the Pacific Ocean was 150 miles, and in 16 days I sailed 2,492 miles. On arrival at Honolulu I delivered up the Packet to Mr. Lewis Chamberlain, secular agent of the American Board of C. F. Missions, agreeably to instructions.

THE LAST OF THE MISSIONARY PACKET.

The missionaries did not have use for the packet all the time, and it was expensive manning and keeping her in order. After a few years' experience they gave her up to the native chiefs (as I understand it) who for the use of her were to keep her in order, and the missionaries were to have the use of her or some other one of their schooners whenever they desired. The chiefs kept her on these conditions until the packet was completely worn out and run out of everything. They then returned her in this condition to the missionaries. She needed very extensive and expensive repairs. The mission, not disposed to incur the great expense, decided to sell her to a respectable American ship-carpenter then residing there, taking her as she was. This carpenter took his own time, repaired her, and put her in order for sea, and offered her for sale. After having her on hand for some time he finally sold her to the French Roman Catholic Bishop of Oceanica, who fitted her out and sent some of his own people on a mission to the islands in the South Pacific Ocean, where (as I understand) she was totally lost on her first voyage under new owners. Thus ended the career of the "first Missionary Packet."

Interview with Count Bismarck.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The Berlin correspondent of the Tribune, G. W. Smalley, gives the following account of an interview with Count Bismarck:

The conversation touched slightly on American topics. He said: In our relations with the United States I never had a doubt. The new party in Prussia, to which I am supposed to belong, at the outbreak of your war, besought the King to recognize the South. I opposed it indignantly.

To me it was clear that the North only could be the true ally of Prussia; with the South we had nothing in common. The Government of Prussia never wavered in its friendship for yours; the sentence was uttered proudly, and the burning eye flamed brighter than ever. It is a traditional policy with us. Frederick the Great, I think, was the first European sovereign to recognize your independence. I am heartily glad that America understands and reciprocates the friendly feeling we have steadily maintained.

Here follows a curious statement, a fact not known to me before, and I think unpublished in America.

At the beginning of our war, said Count Bismarck, Austria was stronger than was the wont, and Italy was not sure to us. It was proposed to me that the leading Southern naval officers should join us with five thousand men and suitable vessels. They were not to come at all as a Confederate navy, but as individuals, and the most eminent officers among them were included in the offer. I consulted your Minister, to know whether an acceptance of this offer would be offensive to the American Government. Mr. Wright was in doubt, and we wrote to Washington. He received instructions to oppose the scheme, and I at once declined having anything to do with it. Semmes made the proposal.

ANDREW AND THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.—Forney's Chronicle puts the following at the President in the tight of his late speeches:

It is amusing to read the President's speeches made while he was "swinging around the circle" in the light of the result of the recent elections. Johnson, with that remarkable appreciation of small things which let him to proclaim with unconcealed satisfaction to the correspondent of the London Times, "I look at Peoria!" seems to have had an idea that the shoutings of approval from few individuals which greeted him at various places was really the voice of the people. He must have returned to Washington confident that his friends would be able to carry the fall elections, else why did he use such language as the following, in his speech at Norwalk, Ohio! "Unless the course of Congress is arrested by your suffrage we shall have another civil war. It will not be between the North and the South, but an internecine war." Now, as the people have refused to arrest the course of Congress by their suffrage, we want to know when the "civil war" predicted by the President will commence. Can his rebel organ here answer this?

"LET THE DEAD PAST BURY ITS DEAD."—Thus pleadeth the Copperheads of "high and low degree." The Albany Commercial very abruptly adds, "Would it not be as well, while letting 'the dead past bury its dead,' to bush the whole Democratic corpse in at once, and be done with it?"

RULES AND REGULATIONS FOR THE PAYMENT OF BOUNTIES, UNDER THE ACT TO EQUALIZE BOUNTIES, APPROVED JULY 28, 1866.

WAR DEPARTMENT, ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, September 26, 1866.

1. All applications shall be filed within the period of six months, from the 1st day of October, 1866, and before any payments are made, shall be classified by regiments, batteries, or other separate organizations, and no application filed after that period shall be settled until after the former shall have been paid.

2. No application shall be entertained unless accompanied by the original discharge of the soldier or sailor, or a certificate of the fourth section of the Act, and the further affidavit that he has not received, nor is he entitled to receive from the United States, under any laws or regulations prior to the Act of July 28, 1866, more than $100 bounty for any and all military service rendered by him during the late rebellion, over and above the amount therein claimed.

3. All applications for the additional bounty authorized by the Act from surviving soldiers shall be in the form hereinafter prescribed, and the evidence of identity shall be the same as now required, and applications from the heirs of deceased soldiers shall be in the form now required by the Treasury Department.

4. As soon as the examination of the claims of any regiment, or other independent organization, shall have been properly acted upon the Paymaster General's office, and also in the office of the Second Auditor, all claims presented under the Act, in which the claimants will be classified by regiments, etc. If the claims be allowed, the amount of bounty paid to each will be noted, and if rejected the cause of rejection will be distinctly stated.

5. In the applications for bounty, as required by the third of these rules, the affidavit shall state each and every period of service rendered by the claimant, and also that the roster served otherwise than as herein stated.

6. Organizations irregularly in the service of the United States, or called out for special purposes, as State Militia, Home Guards, etc., and not included in the general bounty laws, are not included within the meaning of the Act.

7. Soldiers enlisted for "three years or during the war," who were discharged by reason of the termination of the war, shall be considered as having served out the period of their enlistment, and are entitled to bounty under this Act.

8. The infancy of heirs, claimants for bounty under this Act, must be proven to have existed at the date of its passage. Parents shall receive jointly the bounty to which they may be entitled as heirs, unless the father has abandoned the support of his family, in which case it shall be paid to the mother. Non-residences in the United States shall not be a bar to the claim of heirs, who would otherwise legally inherit.

The provisions of the Act exclude from its benefits the following classes:

1. Those who, after serving the full period of their enlistment, were dishonorably discharged at its expiration.

2. Those discharged during enlistment by way of favor or punishment.

3. Those discharged on account of disability contracted in the service, but not occasioned by wounds received "in the line of duty," who shall not have previously served two full years respectively at the time of discharge.

4. Those discharged on account of disability existing at the time of their enlistment.

5. The heirs of those who have died since their discharge of wounds or disease not contracted in the service and in the line of duty.

6. The surviving soldiers and heirs of deceased soldiers who, under previous laws, have received or are entitled to receive a bounty of more than $100 from the United States.

7. The surviving soldiers, as well as the heirs of deceased soldiers, when such soldiers have bartered, sold, assigned, loaned, transferred, exchanged or given away their final discharge papers, or any interest in the bounty provided by this or any other Act of Congress.

8. The Act of the 28th of July, 1866, creates no right of inheritance beyond those vested by the law under which these heirs received or were entitled to receive the original bounty, and hitherto certain classes, brothers and sisters of heirs that were entitled to receive the original bounty, from any claim for the additional bounty provided by this Act.

SOMETHING NEW!

THE NEW LIGHT!

DANFORD'S

Atmospheric Coal Oil Gas Lamp!

ARTIFICIAL LIGHT OF SOME SORT, IS A UNIversal necessity. A Safe, Clean and Brilliant one is a Luxury—a luxury only enjoyed heretofore by those who live in large cities where Gas is used. Years of study and much capital have been exhausted in experiments to produce a lamp wherein the ordinary Kerosene or Coal Oil could be used without a chimney, and without unpleasant odor while in use. That faithful source of expense, trouble and annoyance, the chimney, is in DANFORD'S COAL OIL GAS LAMP avoided; it is the most perfect Lamp and will entirely supersede all other Coal Oil Lamps; it is the cheapest artificial light that can be used, yielding the light of an ordinary six foot Gas burner for less than ½ cent per hour, or double the quantity of light of an ordinary Chimney Lamp, for one third the cost. It will burn when turned down to a taper-light ten hours for a cent, is free from smoke, can be carried from room to room and the wind will not blow it out. These LAMPS will be on exhibition and for sale at the Mode and Art Gallery of Shanahan & Duffene, corner of Morrison and First streets.
